Meow, just want to give my Tasty review!

 I purrchased this DLC 5\/24\/2018 , the day it was released because I liked the first collection THAT much.
That being said, I think some of the feedback from the first collections battle music has been taken and applied. The battle music has a more "epic" flare to it as well. I am a fan of the big tempo changes and things within both collections, a little twist of tasty up tempo here and there, and the sudden rests also, really get the catdrenaline flowing meow.

 Between the two collections the "upbeatness" is definitely in Vol.1, but both are amazing, and I like the groove of this collection. The sound effect'ish stuff is welcome, as it kind of adds that technological tinge to whatever you are trying to add to your rpg maker games. There is a bit more here in terms of things you could use each track for I think, but I really do enjoy Vol. 1 alot with tracks like Kate. I have to recommend both of these collections, highly if you want that futuristic or even modern sci-fi vibe to your game. As far as where to put your $ if you had choose between this one and vol.1, it boils down more to what you are looking for, Vol. 2 has more ambient and relaxing tunes.
Track 5 Field1_Life has an almost Sega Genesis meets the dance club thing going on, really can see traveling a grassy field hoping not to get random encounters to that one.
Memory Box hits all the right spots even with the weird voice bits chopped in there for a cool future town exploring experience. Overall, it seems like a bit more emotion was put into these. If you've bought the first music pack, and liked it, this one is just as amazing. It's just got a bit more different vibe overall. You will not be disappointed.
